

Dr. Kelly E. Green

CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGIST — PROFESSOR — ENTREPRENEUR
HOLISTIC RESTORATIVE COACH — THOUGHT LEADER — AUTHOR
SPEAKER — SINGLE MOTHER TO 3 YOUNG GIRLS

— BRIEF BIOGRAPHY —

Dr. Green is passionate about shaping the future climate for women and minorities through dissemination of evidence-based practices to improve work-life balance, holistic wellness, and equity at work and home. She is a nationally-recognized expert in evidence-based strategies for relationships, addiction recovery, addiction resistance, and the challenges women experience in pursuit of "having it all."

As Founder of The Center for Recovery and Reconnection, Dr. Green leverages 20 years experience with clinical psychology, cognitive-behavioral therapy, motivational enhancement, couple therapy, dialectical behavior therapy, and teaching to facilitate customized, meaningful, and transformative experiences for individuals and organizations.

Dr. Green advocates for Restorative Intersectionality — a framework that integrates feminist and anti-racist goals to challenge social norms that reinforce inequities in productivity expectations and access to guilt-free rest and self-nurturing.
